Permit for plant rejected

County shoots down manufacturing proposal

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A request for a special use permit to allow manufacturing in a residential area near Mitchel was overwhelmingly shot down 17-7 by the Madison County Board Wednesday morning.

In what observers say is an extremely rare move, the board voted against the recommendation of then-local board member, Tim Knott, and the Building and Zoning Board of Appeals to deny Charles Stavely's request for the special use permit.

In late February, the Madison County Board of Appeals approved a special use permit to allow Charles Stavely, 2601 Old Alton Road, to let Triangle Heating of Mitchell use buildings on his residential property for the fabrication of industrial duct work. The business has been using the site for several months.

The county board's action means the zoning board will probably begin taking steps to shut down the operation.

When it made its recommendation, the zoning board made several stipulations. Those include: only Triangle Heating may use the site for business, and if the company leaves, the operator must buy the site for residential use; the existing buildings may not be expanded or enlarged; Stavely must install buffer strips and a privacy fence; operating hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The special use permit would have been revoked if there were any violations.

Stavely had originally asked that the property be rezoned to manufacturing with a special use permit for his residence, but changed his request to a special use permit for the manufacturing.

The final approval of the request was tabled at the last county board meeting.

Since then, neighbors have mounted a campaign against the proposal.

On Tuesday, about 20 angry residents and several Chouteau Township officials crowded a meeting of the board's Land Use Committee.

The residents were highly critical of Stavely, Knott, and the zoning board.

Between separate conversations on the matter of the zoning, they said a new county board member, and general comments on the situation, committee chairman Jack Frandsen, D-Alhambra, said he didn't see any problems with overturning the zoning board's decision, as valid as their county board member brought it up.

When informed that Knott would not talk to them, Frandsen said the board would probably follow the local member's recommendation.

"If Tim Knott gets up and speaks for it, that's the way it's going to go, I'll bet you money on that."

He recommended that the residents try to

Knott facing backlash

Madison County Board member Tim Knott's decision to support the special use permit request by Charles Stavely may be costly politically.

Opponents of the request have said Knott did not pay attention to them and said they would work to defeat him in next year's election.

"That's their decision. I always try to be fair," he said.

Their candidate of choice is reported to be Chouteau Township Supervisor Pat Polley, who opposed the special use permit.

Polley said Wednesday she would run for the office.

She said Knott had not been supportive of his constituents.

"I'm wouldn't even meet with residents and I think that's bad," she said.

Knott said he had met with residents before the zoning hearing, and that nobody had objected to the special use permit.

However, opponents of the permit said Knott had repeatedly tried to avoid meeting with them.

At a county board meeting

Wednesday, after Knott urged fellow board members to approve the special use permit,

"Tim, we did it," he said.

Opponents of the permit were also highly critical of Knott, while meeting with members of the county's Land Use Committee Tuesday morning.

Recount result: Everybody gets one more vote

Barring a court challenge, the balance of power will shift to Pontoon Beach.

A two and a half hour election discovery recount conducted Wednesday in Edwardsville by County Clerk Debbie Sattich slightly changed the results of the April 4 election in Pontoon Beach, but not enough to make a difference in the outcome.

Each of the three trustee candidates gained one additional vote, according to the recount. At least a 16-count sway would be necessary to alter the balance of power.

Representing the three candidates who requested the recount, said he discovered "a number of irregularities" in the course of discovery, including a ballot apparently improved by an elected judge, "at least half dozen" absentee ballots irregularities; and a ballot on which the voter clearly intended to vote for his clients but which was not counted.

In the election, three candidates from the United For Progress party — incumbent Irene Karlechik and newcomers Randy Presswood and Gus Falter were elected to the board.

Fourteen other candidates were defeated.

Former Pontoon Beach Deputy Clerk Laura Kostecki has filed an appeal of her firing by Clerk Mary Rowden.

Kostecki, who was fired

Tuesday afternoon, after formal notification of the decision early Wednesday morning.

According to Rowden, the board will hear the appeal in executive session sometime later this week after the regular board meeting Tuesday.

The firing was made public at an ad hoc village board committee meeting Tuesday evening, when Trustee Bob Vincent questioned the action.

According to Kostecki, Rowden notified her of her termination at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. In the meantime, Kostecki failed to complete her duties in an acceptable manner.

The firing came five days after Rowden took office. She hired elected incumbent clerk Lou Whitsell in the April 4 elections.

The race for village clerk had been especially heated, and two-thirds of the reports of tension between Kostecki and Rowden after the election. Late last week, Rowden said she was trying to work with Kostecki, but Kostecki claimed Rowden was trying to force her to resign.

In a press release Wednesday, Rowden said she had made "repeated attempts," to talk to Kostecki.

"Her apparent inability to accept me as her immediate supervisor and the unwillingness displayed by her to conform to the rules and regulations set forth by me prompted me to make this decision," Rowden said.

Rowden added that Kostecki admitted in an April 16 article in the City Journal that Whitsell "continued to have considerable influence on her."

"I have no desire to carry on any political feud with Lou

10 named to county's advisory health board

By Scott Wuerz
Staff writer

A 10-member advisory board was appointed Wednesday to help develop the Madison County Health Department.

Three professional health care providers and seven laymen were selected unanimously after two months of sorting through applicants. Health Department Administrator Donald Brannon said.

The three professionals chosen were Dr. Thomas Kistner of Godfrey, dentist Jon R. Gardner of Madison and registered nurse Marcia Shafer-Custer of Edwardsville.

Khishab also is president of the Madison County Medical Society. Sheer-Owens was a co-founder of "Project Caring" in East St. Louis, Brannon said.

Other committee members chosen were Dr. Jacqueline Collier of Jerseyville, Dr. James McCann of Bethalto, Dr. Linda L. Grist Sr. of Edwardsville, Floyd E. Gallimore of Alton, Corwin L. Bowen of Bethalto and Adelia

C. Hosto of Wood River. Brannon said one common factor among the appointed committee members was a strong background in public service.

"All 47 applicants were great people," Brannon said. "The only qualification was that candidates were to be chosen on their fitness to serve, so no one was excluded." Just about all candidates were involved in some sort of public service.

The committee members were given staggered terms ranging from one to three years for the first round of appointments. Brannon said. But all future committee members will be appointed to three-year terms.

Grist and Hosto received one-year terms, Kisabeth, Gardner, Snelson and Bowen received two-year terms and Shafer-Custer, James McCann and Gallimore received three-year terms.

Terms were determined by drawing numbered slips of paper from a hat.

Now that the committee is fully in place, Brannon said, its first function will

Clayborne pledges 'open door'

Sen. James F. Clayborne Jr. of Belleville headed to Springfield Monday, just hours after taking the oath of office to replace the late Sen. Kenneth Hall.

Clayborne, sworn in by 20th Judicial Circuit Chief Judge Stephen M. Kernan, said being appointed to the post was an honor, especially in light of Hall's service.

Amidst family, friends and co-workers in the jam-packed County Board Room, he said he would work hard to fight for issues that affect the residents of the 57th District.

A former St. Clair County assistant state attorney, Clayborne said he will focus on crime, taxes and economic development while in office.

Braun pledges fight for Price

If the Charles Melvin Price U.S. Army Support Center is closed, who will provide services to the 50 or so federal agencies currently supported by the base?

That is the question Col. Mike Sloan, commander of the Price Center, posed Monday afternoon during a tour of the Granite City Army installation.

U.S. Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun, on hand for the tour, was among officials who testified last week before the defense department's Base Realignment and Closure Commission. Also testifying were Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra and other local officials.

"The Price Center has an impact on military value and retention on investment that DoD failed to find," Moseley-Braun said.

The Price Center provided transportation, education, supply and other community services to 30 non-tenant organizations as well as 25 agencies located on-base, Sloan said.

Ground broken on new line

In a little more than a year, Granite City Division of National Steel will be the "one-stop shopping place" for steel products, the division's vice president says.

Alfredo Saldívar, steelworkers, politicians and others stood by last week as the ceremonial first few shovels full of dirt were excavated at the site of a new $67 million galvanizing line at Granite City Steel.

The construction marks the beginning of a new era for Granite City's largest industry, division vice president Ken Leonard said.

Tug-of-war continues

At least one Madison alderman thinks there's something rotten in Belleville.

Last week, Madison Alderman Ron Grzywacz urged City Attorney Casper Nighofmann to file a lawsuit against St. Clair County in Madison County Circuit Court.

At issue is a pending lawsuit, filed in St. Clair County in 1991 by St. Clair County State's Attorney Robert Haida, challenging all of the city of Madison's actions since St. Clair County filed some dating back to 1984. The property in question includes the Gateway Truck Plaza, the Waste Management Midland Landfill, Gateway International Raceway and Stagez Nightclub.

While several hundred thousand dollars in sales taxes collected since the lawsuit was filed remain in an escrow account, the city of Madison is going broke.

Echols targets burnt-out houses

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Burned-out houses in Venice are a "blight" and should be removed as quickly as possible, according to Mayor Tyrone Echols.

At Tuesday's council meeting, Echols said the city was going to make a "significant push" against the owners of about a dozen houses he described as "quitted and charred."

"It's a sickening feeling to ride through town and see this," he said.

Echols said he would instruct city officials to start serving notice on property owners serving notice on property owners.

"Whoever's toes I have to step on, get ready, cause here I come," he said.

"It's been a situation that's been prolonged," he said. "You make an attempt to be fair with people and give them more than ample time, but it comes to the point where it's obvious to me that they don't intend to do anything about it."

Echols said he has identified properties to be demolished, mostly in the east end.

"I think I counted maybe a dozen," he said. "We want to tear them down and haul that debris away. It's a blight and is possibly becoming a fire hazard."

One of the problems is with owners buying up property for a quick profit and not making any repairs, Echols said.

Their intent is to gouge home owners for what comes along," he said.

Echols also said the city needed to be more strict in issuing citations for such properties.

"We've got to be a little more stern about fining them," he said. "And those who can't pay fines, they need a broom."

Several aldermen also mentioned properties that needed to be dealt with.

City Attorney Casper Nighofmann said the majority of property owners did not clean up their land, a judge could cite them for contempt and put them in jail. However, he said that is hasn't ever done.

After the meeting, Echols said if property owners wouldn't voluntarily demolish the burnt-out homes, the city would try to use condemned development funds to pay for the demolition.

He noted that Venice Township had some money for demolition that had to be spent by October.

Warrants send Venice man to county jail

A Venice man discovered Saturday that things had gotten worse.

On Friday, Michael Johnson, 21, of the 1200 block of Robin Street, was in the custody awaiting transfer to the Madison County Jail.

He was wanted on 11 outstanding warrants for failure to appear — on charges ranging from improper use of a turn signal to criminal trespass.

Total bail is set at $30,000.

According to Madison police reports, the department was notified that the Venice Police Department had Johnson in custody Saturday.

A single check showed 10 outstanding warrants on Johnson; all were failure to appear on previous charges.

Charges included one count each of reckless conduct, disorderly conduct, a peace officer, reckless driving, improper farm equipment, disorderly conduct, display of license plates and criminal trespass to land. He also had two counts each of operating an uninsured motor vehicle and resisting a peace officer.

While awaiting Johnson's transfer to the Madison Police Department, Venice police discovered he had another outstanding warrant.

State lawmakers are aiming to get guns out of the hands of people involved in domestic abuse cases.

A bill pending in the Illinois Senate would allow law enforcement to take firearms after a hearing from someone who has committed domestic abuse. The bill passed the Illinois House last month 95-5.

Such a bill may have applied to the domestic case involving David M. Eidson who shot his estranged wife with a shotgun in Godfrey Saturday, killed the woman's companion and then killed himself.

There was an order of protection against Eidson since Dec. 1, and the order indicated that Eidson had struck his wife.

If there is a situation where a weapon is likely to be used (in the proposed law) will help said Vickie Smith, executive director of the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence.

Under the bill now before the Senate, if there is a danger that a gun could be used in a domestic dispute, a judge, in issuing an order of protection, would have the power to order all firearms turned over to local police.

"For someone to decide whether or not a gun will be used in the future is a tough call," Smith said. "People have died because (of) the wrong call."

Police would hold the weapons for up to two years or until the protection order expires, she said.

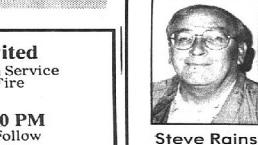

Smith said that although domestic abuse has gotten more recognition in recent years, people still do not take it seriously enough.

"We need to think about all domestic violence victims," she said.

"She said, noting that about 300,000 adults are abuse victims in Illinois each year.

"Often abusers threaten to murder their victims and restraining orders are not always successful in restraining," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Andrea Moore.

Letters to the editor

Youth Center gets some help

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of myself and my committee, Bob Slate and Denise Fuzesserry, I would like to thank everyone who helped make the April 1 Mayor's Youth Center Trivia Night a resounding success. With more than 180 people on hand, the kickoff event raised nearly $3,400. The Tri-City Bar Association was gracious enough to supply all the prize money and the Eagles were equally generous, donating the use of their hall at no cost.

We would like to thank the following businesses and individuals for the donations they made to help make the evening successful:

Alright Cleaners, American Cleaners, Americana Country Restaurant, Bellinger's Advertising Service, Business Equipment Center, R C and Shirley Bush, Champion Wedding and Party Rental, Conoco Light & Town Cable, Domino's Pizza, Brad Eavenson's Frito Lay Inc., Gitcho Gas, Goff and Dittman Florist, Granite City Car Wash, Great Clips, Heart Body Gym and Boxing Club, Hudson's Hardware, Jessica's Cottage, Lee Konan, Kramden's Bar and Grill, Little Caesar's Pizza, Lombardi Furniture and Interiors, Merle Norman, Mrs. Fields Cookies, Papa John's Pizza, Perfect 10 Nail Boutique, Pizza Hut, Planet Granite Hair Salon, Player's Bar and Grill, Rapin Lube, Robert's Paper and Print, and Tari's Tan Lines Tan Shop, Natick by Franckie, Tari's Hair Design, Tommi's Pizza, Tri-City Area YMCA and Vesci Distributing.

We would also like to thank all of the participants for helping to make the event fun and successful. This is the first of many events scheduled for the Mayor's Youth Center throughout the year and participation of the entire community to make this a reality. Once again, thank you and we hope to see you at all future events.

One testament to guns' worth

TO THE EDITOR:

I cannot understand the logic of those people who oppose legalizing gun carrying by gun rights citizens.

If I had listened to those twisted minds of "highly learned" psychologists and some police chiefs, I would have been dead 22 years ago.

It happened in March 1972. I was driving at night, from Carbondale, and my new car stopped on the road at the Lake of the Snows in Belleville. The fuel gauge showed about a half tank, but I felt that it was out of gas. I checked the tank and it was empty. The connection in the gauge was short-circuited.

I opened the hood, put a handkerchief on the antenna rod and waited. Many vehicles passed, but one with two men and a woman stopped about 100 yards in front of my car.

A young white man came up to me and asked what was wrong. I told him he was offered to take me to St. Louis, but I refused to ride with them. Instead, I asked him to sell me a gallon of gas, and I will be glad to pay 10 for it. He agreed to wait, but took my trunk to get the empty canister for gas.

As I bent down, he tried to hit me on the neck, but as I moved, he missed. When I received a blow on my shoulder, Immediately, I jumped to the right and over the barrier and ran. While running, I pulled my little Browning gun and turned around. He jumped over the barrier, too, but it was wet and slippery and he fell.

As I turned, he was getting up from the ground, and I ran my little gun pointing at his head. He raised his hands up and shouted, "Oh, you have a gun, you have a gun. I have a gun, too."

But he was stepping back and I shot him. From the car, the woman shouted, "Jimmy, come back. Jimmy come back."

I did not say a word and let him go, which he did very fast.

The next weekend, I bought a new, good gun, 12-shot semi-automatic. Guns do not shoot — people do.

Later came a highway vehicle and a Belleville police car. They told me that he had shot me and the police officer said that I was very lucky because they probably planned to kill me.

The next morning, in the faculty lounge, I told my friends about it and some of them said that I should have shot that bastard. I just wanted to get out of trouble.

Bureaucracy makes waste

TO THE EDITOR:

Can there be any doubt now as to which party possesses the basic difference? It is common knowledge that any bureaucracy such as the school system is fraught with waste.

If as reported, there is any-where between 90 percent of school children in the low-income assistance program, we certainly have waste there.

All bureaucracies have often found it necessary to spend far-over money at the end of the fiscal year in order to assure there will be no cuts the following year. So the money is spent, and often on unnecessary items. Waste!

Now we are regularly hearing from radio and C-Span callers that children regularly throw away half their food. Waste!

And the two caterers seem on TV that I saw, one meat course was a hot dog and the other was a sloppy Joe. That may not be waste, but it's certainly not the picture of a wholesome meal that some would like to think.

All of this information should cause even the least astute of us to suspect that good management could bring about a better picture for our country.

Then there is the constant reminder ringing in our ears that there is a proposed cut, that is a 4 percent hike instead of the usual increase. No Democrat has denied that.

Yet with all this evidence of waste, Democratic politicians with the aid of the TV media have been able to make it appear that no one knows the truth.

That almost everyone is against running the school lunch program more efficiently. The media coverage makes it seem as if the vast majority of the people in the country are holding lunch trays over their heads and yelling "We want No Waste!"

It is strange that the majority of us are wondering why we are so suddenly alone. That was a wonderfully done demonstration but it was a waste.

It was staged and designed to obscure the truth. The media will say that they have to cover the news. That is true but where were they during the '92 presidential campaign when the street was filled with people demonstrating against the Clinton's?

Scenes of those occurrences were shown on the Bush Limbaugh show and talk radio reported it often but the major media ignored it.

Democrats have been in the White House for 40 years and have become master politicians. But we do not need master politicians for we know that their main interest is in re-election.

There is nothing quicker or more dangerous than a liberal politician whose ideas have been spurned because they have nothing to lose, not even credibility. Those have never had to work from a basis in fact so they work on emotions.

They seem now to be suggesting that Republicans, most of whom are not life long Republicans, are insisting that women bear children so they can watch them starve. This would not work without constant reminders that it is to be working just fine.

I doubt that the 80 percent of Americans who believed in the Republican contract have changed their minds, but I do believe the Republicans are growing faint of heart.

If that is true, liberals are winning and America is losing again.

Legalization proponents trip

Reason? None. He was just drunk.

Would the sophists who are proponents of legalization please step forth. If they do, they will, as usual, trip over their tongues.

Aged, young count on each other

Next month, there will be a fourth — and last in this series — White House Conference on Aging.

Despite its title, the conference will deal with people of all ages. Its theme is "The Generations Are Interdependent."

Illinoisans proposals for the May 2-5 meeting in Washington include:

• Fighting drug abuse by building children's self-esteem.

• Promoting parenting, nutrition and exercise for infants, toddlers, elementary pupils and high-school students.

• Guaranteeing that Social Security benefits are paid to eligible conference delegates' grandchildren prepare to retire.

Although basically forums for discussion, previous White House conferences have had tangible results:

• In 1961, the theme was "The Nation and Its Older People." Major recommendations made 947 recommendations. Their work contributed to later passage of such landmark legislation as Medicare, Medicaid and the Older Americans Act of 1965.

In 1971, the theme was "Toward a National Policy on Aging." Recommendations include 3,574 produced 710 recommendations, leading to laws enabling Supplemental Security Income plans that have little chance of enactment. Instead, the conference may produce "a short, pragmatic report that is doable."

She says four broad issues will be:

1. Assuring comprehensive health care, including long-term care.

2. Promoting economic security.

3. Maximizing housing and support-service options.

4. Creating options for a quality life.

Another topic, Shala says, will be "How do we crack down on waste, fraud and abuse plaguing programs for the aging population?"

"How can we make government more effective? We're not coming together to create more bureaucracies, but to evaluate the way government does its business."

"We've got a unique set of challenges this year because we're moving into an atmosphere of rapid containment."

"Our theme is a composite of two proposals submitted for public comment: America now and the next century. And, generations aging together with independence, opportunity and dignity."

"This conference will be about convincing young people that they have to plan for their old age."

Planners note that the linking of several generations is not being done solely because senior citizens wish the best for their children and grandchildren.

Their aim, the report says, is to generate a sense of responsibility among young people that relatively inexpensive preventive measures can reduce the high cost of medications, acute care and medical care.

They also emphasize the importance of building Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid programs so costly that it endangers the level of benefits available to future generations?

Also being emphasized are screening and fitness programs for young people. Illinois delegates say that relatively inexpensive preventive measures can reduce the high cost of medications, acute care and medical care.

They further spotlight stress management, emotional health counseling and substance-abuse treatment.

Also being emphasized are services that help the ill and infirm stay in their homes rather than moving to a nursing home.

In regional areas, seniors also have urged less discrimination on the basis of age, increased respect for the elderly, and a practical idea: "eliminating child-proof bottle tops on medicine for aging arthritis victims."

They also urge that the government more effectively?

Keep searching for the right word

"O'er perish the use of those four-letter words Whose meanings are never obscure."

The Angles and Saxons, those bawdy old birds,
Were vulgar, obscene, and impudent;

Impudent, cherish the use of the swearing phrase

Following, at least partially. But I've been following, with considerable interest, the case of Cissy Lacks, a black woman and mother of 13, who was fired recently by the Ferguson-Florissant School Board for flouting the district's policy.

Students, for failing to censor her students' assignments — video tapes and poetry, based on their own lives — in terms of usage or reading level.

The assignments were made after the class had read the Pulitzer Prize-winning drama, "Fences," by August Wilson.

A suit has been filed in St. Louis against the school district, on behalf of Lacks. Lacks appears to believe that her assignments represent a mix of academic and artistic achievement.

The school board maintains that, according to their policy, there is no place in public schools for profanity, whether original or otherwise.

Obviously, it's unfortunate that middle ground exists between the teacher's responsibility to set standards versus student creativity.

It's hard not to feel sympathy for Lacks, with her desire to gain recognition for her students' interest in literature and to test their own potential for creation in terms of the written word.

For me, it's equally hard to support a policy that bars the study of literature based solely on whether or not it contains profanity.

"Never mind the classics. You might have to define some of the words. Let 'em read 'em."

But, in spite of my sympathy for the frustrated teacher, I don't support her. Not because, to me, it represents just another example of the dumbing-down of our educational system, the setting of academic standards to the lowest common denominator.

And if we continue the course, eventually, there will be no such thing as academic standards.

Not as in the opening street language of the classics and poems: Although, for obvious reasons, it wasn't quoted in news reports, most of us can make an educated guess as to what the particular obscenity is.

While I'm personally not unduly upset by this word, I'm disturbed by the poverty of vocabulary it's excessive use displays.

Hence, an only semi-factual suggestion to teachers like

Lacks: Buy a copy of "Wicked Words" (sub-titled "A Treasury of Curses, Insults, Put-Downs, and Other Completely Unprintable Terms from the Past to the Present") by etymologist Hugh Rawson and keep it handy for classroom reference.

It won't stop students from using the words, but it will provide them with synonyms, euphemisms, a history of origins and first-time printed usage (in this case, a Sonnet poem by William Caxton, written prior to 1490), as well as a fascinating background on court cases relative to banning of books that include The Word.

They may even get some amusement from some of the quips in which it's pointed out that our other word will really fill the bill.

As in writer Dorothy Parker's response to being asked by her editor how she planned to come to work: "Tell Ross I'm too busy to write and vice-versa."

From A to Z (Animal to Zulu) they're bound to learn a lot from the reference book, to say nothing of enlarging some paltry vocabularies.

'We couldn't do it without volunteers'

By Bob Slatte
Staff writer

President George Bush called them "a thousand points of light."

They come from all walks of life — some of them are teenagers dressed in pink and white; others are parents helping out with activities in which their children are involved, and still others are retired adults looking for a way to remain productive in their later years.

They are volunteers.

"We couldn't do it without volunteers," said Char McAllister, field director of the Riverfront Girl Scouts.

Next week, April 23-29, is national volunteer week — a time set aside to recognize those who spend countless hours doing often thankless jobs for no compensation save their own sense of accomplishment.

About 625 girls in the Granite City area participate in Girl Scouting. Nearly every weekend, one or more of the 58 area troops is participating in some kind of activity.

Last weekend, for example, the Girl Scouts delivered "bunny boxes" to elderly persons at area nursing homes. Next weekend, the girls will attend a tree planting and rededication at Wilson Park. Other activities include daddy-daughter crazy bowling, rafting and swimming parties, and a Festival of Giving in December.

And with all those girls running around, somebody has to make sure they get fed.

That is why every one of the 200 adult volunteer Girl Scout leaders in the area is needed.

"In fact, we have some girls who want to participate but can't because we need more volunteer leaders," said Kathy Licknenbrook, a neighborhood chair with the responsibility to recruit adult volunteers for the Girl Scouts.

To volunteers to be a troop leader, call the River Bluffs Girl Scouts at 457-2562.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center utilizes more than 200 adults and 70 teenage volunteers, putting in 65,000 hours a year in 58 different departments.

"They can do it without them. They are indispensable," said Joyce Epperson, director of volunteer services at SEMC.

Volunteers at SEMC are utilized to transport patients by wheelchair, answer telephones, do clerical work, fill water jugs, deliver menus and books, pick up medication, run the coffee shop, help with the gift shop, more than $100,000 annually to the hospital), and perform a variety of other tasks that would otherwise be done by paid employees.

Utilization of volunteers for certain tasks allows staff members to spend more time with patients, Epperson said.

Volunteers are one reason why 88 cents of every dollar contributed to the Tri-Cities Area United Way is used for community programs and services.

"Volunteers are the United Way," said Jan Quarton, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

"We wouldn't be here without them."

"From fund-raising to allocating, everything is done by volunteers. The staff is only here to provide leadership and help volunteers make the decisions," Quarton said.

"My job is to make possible effective leadership by

50 years of pickin' and grinnin'

Wayne Scannell today.

For as long as he can remember, Wayne Scannell has loved "pickin' the guitar."

Wayne was seven years old in 1945 when his father, Leo, gave him his first guitar — a $10 acoustic guitar with a son enrolled as the first guitar student at Johnson's Music Store, located in downtown Granite City next to the old Granite City Book Store.

"I was fortunate in those early years, being surrounded by a lot of people with musical talent that helped me," Scannell said.

One of them was Wayne's cousin, Bud Edwards, who had a band along with Royce Timmons, Carl Horsemeyer and Russell Kitzman all of Mitchell.

"Bud would walk up behind me and play along on the strings and make me think I was really playing the guitar," Scannell recalls.

He also spent a lot of time

Wayne and "Chili Dipper," a Gibson LG1 guitar, in 1950.

with the Chastain family. Every one of the Chastains could play a musical instrument.

"Everett Chastain was the first to show me how to play a six-string chord," Scannell said. "Wayne was also active in the church choir at St. Elizabeth's Church in Mitchell, led by Mac Hawks, the organist.

"She would take the choir to the White Way Diner (later known as Hillbilly Park Restaurant) for hamburgers and Cokes after choir practice," Scannell said.

"Another influence was Duke DeLoach, a musician who would take Wayne to amateur shows on Sundays."

"Most of the shows were in Pontoon Beach or at Scott Air Force Base. Duke would be upset if I didn't win first or second place," Scannell said.

The Wayne Scannell Trio, with Ralph Mathis and Red Christian, was founded when Wayne was 13. Because the trio performed at local taverns, Wayne's parents had to be present for most of the gigs.

Their first engagement was at Bud Moore's Shamrock Inn in Mitchell.

"Ralph was great on lead guitar and Red was super on the upright bass. I did the chords on the guitar and singing," Scannell said. Mathis received Scannell's Gibson LG1 — a guitar he still owns today —

"The Chili Dipper." In addition to the Shamrock Inn, the trio played the Diamond Inn in Mitchell, owned by Butch Buterich, and the Evergreen (also known as Red Gumn's) in Granite City, owned by Stanley Knott said he tried to treat everybody fairly, and that there had always been a business at the St. Shewey residence.

He also pointed out that his property was rezoned 600 feet from Staveley's property for commercial use.

"I think he (Staveley) was treated unfairly," Knott said. "I couldn't tell him no when the zoning board of appeals approved a change 600 feet away," Knott said.

Scannell's sales career began in the 1950s, when he would push a soda cart through the crowd at Bob Hastings' Hillbilly Park in Pontoon Beach. Harry Williams St., Eddie Arnold, Little Jimmy Dickens, Sammee Jim, Bill Monroe and Moon Mullican were among the celebrities who entertained at Hillbilly Park.

"The famous stars would say to the crowd, 'Let's get our soda boy up on the stage to do a song with us,'" Wayne recalls.

"It was such a thrill to stand and sing next to the stars. I hoped that maybe something good would happen to me. It's every musician's dream to someday make it big."

But Scannell has kept everything in perspective.

"Everyone has a dream of making it big and you never really give up trying. But when you look back and see how good life has been to you and all the fun you've had, picking and singing, you realize the importance of a family life," Scannell said.

Today, Scannell is a member of the San-A-Tones and the County Music Machine. Most of the concerts are performed for handicapped organizations in Madison County.

He also plays and sings in a guitar group at Holy Family Church in O'Fallon.

Scannell recently ran unsuccessfully for 6th Ward alderman in Granite City.

Mr. Eads was a member of the ARS and the St. Louis Council for many years. He was a former president of the St. Louis Rose Society, and ARS rose show judge and consulting rosarian, ARS representative to the St. Louis Council for Grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by one sister, Trudeau (Bennett) Hodges, and one brother, Elmer (Bennett) Hodges.

DCFS worker won't get job back

Volunteer fair set for Sunday

Nearly 25 volunteer agencies will participate in "Celebrate Volunteers—The Volunteer Recruitment and Health Fair" April 23 at Mater Dei High School in Breez.

The fair is sponsored and underwritten by the Catholic Knights and Ladies of Illinois (CKLI), a 110-year old fraternal insurance organization offering a broad range of life insurance and annuity products. Members and spouses of Illinois participate in the organization's volunteer and fraternal programs.

Kicking off National Fraternal Week, in conjunction with National Volunteer Week April 23 through 29, "Celebrate Volunteers" will showcase these agencies to volunteers and will highlight the accomplishments of volunteers. CKLI, the American Red Cross, and the Red Cross will hold a blood drive at Mater Dei at the same time. Hearing and blood pressure screenings will be available, as will the Fire Safety House.

Mayors from throughout the three-county area have been invited to sign the National Fraternal Week Proclamation to kick off the event.

Not only is most of the United Way's work done by volunteers, but most of the 60 programs that receive United Way dollars also utilize volunteers.

"But with the business climate as it is today, volunteers are becoming more and more difficult to recruit," Quarion said.

"People at the workplace are so busy these days," she said.

"There just doesn't seem to be enough time."

Whether it's scouting or service organizations, public service or even private enterprise, volunteers help to transform the impossible into reality. Thank a volunteer next week.

SPRINGFIELD — An Illinois Department of Children and Family Services supervisor fired after the death of 2-year-old Wood River boy has lost another round in her fight to get her job back.

Judge Sue Myerson would only eight months to issue a one-page order refusing to reverse the state Civil Service Commission's upholding of Shelley Mudd's firing Sept. 1, 1993. Myerson's order does not address specific issues raised in the appeal, simply concluding the commission's decision was "not against the manifest weight of the evidence, established cause for discharge and did not violate the due process rights of (Mudd)."

Carl Draper, Mudd's attorney, said, "We're disappointed, but she didn't know the reasons behind the judge's ruling. We are still very concerned Shelley was singled out after an inadequate investigation and she's being held liable for the conduct of a subordinate employee rather than applying the correct standard that should be considered for a supervisor."

Mude of Springfield, was a 14-year DCFS employee whose work had won praise from her supervisors. She was fired along with 12 other caseworkers at the end of January, whom she had supervised, after an investigation after the death of Michael Cecil in Wood River in August 1993.

DCFS officials contend Mudd was negligent in her duties when she did not require Myers to conduct an additional investigation when an 8-year-old boy had received in April 1993. At the time, the boy was living with his mother, Kathy Cecil, and her boyfriend, Keith Bennett, in Roxbury.

ment replacement and facility improvements. The increase for the summer session would be $270 for a full-time student who currently pays $48.

Under the proposals submitted, housing rental rates would increase 3 percent for family units, 5 percent for single student apartments, and 8 percent for the Student Residence Hall. The Camp Housing Activity Fund would increase from $6 to $7 for the summer session. Residence Hall board charges would be amended by adding an additional meal plan option and increasing the cost of an existing option.

University officers said the rates proposed would offset operating cost increases related to salary, general and utility costs, which would be reduced to meet debt service obligations.

For a single student living in Tower Lake Apartments, the rental rate would increase from $85 per semester for a shared room. For the summer session, the rate would increase from $445 to $470.

In the Student Residence Hall, the rates per student for a shared room would increase from $1,010 per semester to $1,090.

Meal plan options would be offered on a semester basis: plan A, $635; plan E, $735; and plan C, $835.

For a family living in Tower Lake Apartments, the rate for an unfurnished, two-bedroom apartment would be increased $12 per month, from $69 to $421.

Corresponding increases would be applied to all apartments occupied by families.

•Clerk

Whitstell or the deputy clerk who worked for him," Rowden said. Kostecki was hired as a part-time clerk in July, 1993. She became deputy clerk after Rowden resigned last year.

Rowden said she is not planning to hire a replacement until she knows where everything is and the new clerk settles down.

At Tuesday's meeting, Mayor Mike Mackel and Bob Vincent, and Mayor Greg Wilson argued about the firing. Mackel lead the UPP party ticket, while Wilson and Vincent are members of the rival Village Improvement Party.

Mackel said he had hoped the two could have worked out their differences.

"The whole thing is a sad situation," he said. "But the clerk's got control in her office."

"Lou (Whitstell) showed me a lot of stuff in the law on what a clerk could do," he said.

Vincent said that Kostecki was fired so quickly.

"How could you fire somebody after only four days?" he asked.

Wilson said he agreed that the clerk had the right to deal with her office, but said he "just wasn't happy about the way it was done."

Wilson also argued that two hours of Kostecki's day was supposed to be an 8-hour shift.

The debate over Kostecki may be the first shot in larger debates between the two factions.

In the elections, the UPP gained two trustees, leaving the mayor with two supporters on the board.

"It's a bad way to start a four-year term," Wilson said. "But if that's the way it's got to be, that's the way it's got to be."

change the election results.

The results of the recount were identical to the original count in seven of the nine precincts.

In Nameoki precinct 7, each of the VIP candidates gained two additional votes.

But in Nameoki 9, each of the VIP candidates lost a vote and the UPP candidates gained one.

The net effect: one additional vote for each of the six trustee candidates.

Some said changes of one or two votes are common in recounts because additional handling of ballots can result in losing additional "ballot cards"—the tiny perforated pieces of cardboard that are punched out in the voting process—due to the ballots.

In the recount, Rekowski said that another issue—separate from the discovery Wednesday—may have had a dramatic effect on the results.

Abraham, 20 miles south of a disabled home located in Chouteau precinct 9, should have been allowed to vote absentee, but were not, Rekowski said.

"The bottom line is this, it was a close election, there were numerous irregularities and there was an entire group who was disenfranchised," Rekowski said.

He said that since 1990, when the board approved a storage building on the site, there have been several unauthorized buildings and elected officials indicated, and inspections in September 1994 and December 1994 showed repeated zoning violations.

"We feel they've had a lot of problems here and numerous violations," Frandsen said. "People complain about trucks coming in at 8:30 at night."

"The bottom line is none of us would want this next to our house," he said.

Knott did not speak on the matter except to urge that the request be passed.

to be to help complete a community needs assessment that will serve as the blueprint for the health department.

The health department is scheduled to begin food and well inspection, immunization and educational programs sometime in 1996, he added.

In other business, the Health Board, which is also the Madison County Board, authorized Frandsen to apply for grants from the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Health Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer said that in order to qualify for any IDPH grant, the county must submit an application by May 5.

By submitting an application, the county is eligible to apply for grants during the fiscal years 1996-99.

meet with Knott before today's board meeting. When asked if he would support the residents, Frandsen would not comment.

"Let's wait and see what happens," he said.

However, at Wednesday's meeting it was Frandsen who brought up the matter.

He said that since 1990, when the board approved a storage building on the site, there have been several unauthorized buildings and elected officials indicated, and inspections in September 1994 and December 1994 showed repeated zoning violations.

Ernest and Annie Sendejas

Sendejas in 1935

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pizano

Sendejases - 60 years

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sendejas of Collinsville celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on April 8 with a reception at Bevo Mill in St. Louis.

Sendejas and the former Annie Giovando were married in Waterloo on April 15, 1935. He was employed as a driver for the Johnson Bottling Company in Collinsville.

After leaving Dellamonte, the couple owned and operated Ernie and Annie's in Granite City, a tavern and restaurant that specialized in Mexican food. They operated the business for 19 years, retiring in August of 1974.

They have one daughter, Joann Sendejas-Serrano of Collinsville, two grandchildren, Darren Serrano and Alicia Serrano-Borri, and two great-grandchildren, Gavin Serrano and Cameron Borri.

Wells-Caspersen

Rebecca Lynn Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Wells of Granite City, and Carl Norman Caspersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Caspersen of Lake Linden, Mich., have announced their engagement.

Wells is a 1989 graduate of Francis Howell North High School in St. Charles, Mo., and is presently attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She is majoring in technical theater and is employed at Express Scripts at Riverport and at the family business, Safari Sno in Granite City.

Rebecca Wells and Carl Caspersen

Rebecca will wed on May 13 in St. Mary's Church of DePue. Their attendants were the late Frank Solorio and Jessie Solorio of DePue.

He is a retired construction worker and a graduate of Peoria High School. He has resided in Westclow, Ill., for 24 years at Westclow LaSalle, Ill., and retired from Electromagnetics in Spring Valley, Ill.

The Pizanos have two daughters, Rosemarie, 21, of Peoria, and Christine Pohlson of DePue. They have five grandchildren; one is deceased.

Girl Scout reunion set

All retired and active Girl Scout leaders are invited to attend the sixth annual Girl Scout Leadership Roundtable dinner on April 25 at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant at 4020 Pontoon Road.

Please call 931-1487 by April 23 if you plan to attend or for additional information.

Honors Day program at SIUE

Approximately 200 students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville received special awards at the annual Honors Day Convocation Sunday, April 9.

For Honors Day recognition, students must maintain a grade point average of 3.50 or better (3.0 being equivalent to B; 4.0 to A). In addition, students must have completed and passed at least 24 calculated hours of studies at the university to be eligible for recognition.

Each year during convocation, the SIU Foundation gives awards to the graduating male and female with the highest four-year grade point averages. This year's award winners are Jacqueline Weller and Timothy Range of Troy. Both have a 4.0 average. Spray is majoring in chemistry, while Range is majoring in electrical engineering.

Michael Pizano and the former Sally Moreno of Mitchell were married April 2, 1961, at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Edwardsville. The attendants were Esther Pizano of DePue and Julio Vasquez of St. Louis.

Several years later, the couple went to the church of St. Mary's of DePue. Their attendants were the late Frank Solorio and Jessie Solorio of DePue.

He is a retired construction worker and a graduate of Peoria High School. He has resided in Westclow, Ill., for 24 years at Westclow LaSalle, Ill., and retired from Electromagnetics in Spring Valley, Ill.

The Pizanos have two daughters, Rosemarie, 21, of Peoria, and Christine Pohlson of DePue. They have five grandchildren; one is deceased.

During the ceremonies, Wayne Santoni, associate professor of historical studies at the university, received this year's Teaching Excellence Award, a $1,000 master's award. The award recognizes the outstanding faculty member of the year. Recipients of the award are first nominated by students enrolled in their institution's classes, and then selected by members of a university-wide panel.

Local students receiving special awards during the convocation include:

Granite City — David Chapman, the Accounting Faculty Award; James Down, the American Concrete Institute International Concrete Faculty Competition; third place; Kenny Muller, the Outstanding Student in Nursing Award; Charles Noud, the Susan Slaughter Award in Trumbull.

Edwardsville — Gary Blase, the Accounting Faculty Award.

Madison — John Cawley, the Ella Ott Weisman Award in Biological Sciences; and the Donald G. Myer Outstanding Student Award; Joan Miller, the Ann Heiden Wharton Memorial Nursing Award.

Maryville — Charles Rastorfer, the Edwin Warren Memorial Scholarship Award.

SIUE on track with prep meets

The baton has been passed to southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Collinsville High School has been the hotbed for the last three years for area high school track and field teams, but with the new $5 million facility at SIUE, area track events are heading a bit farther north on Illinois 157 to Edwardsville.

"That's where the track and stadium was built — to make it available on an area-wide basis," said Harry Lang, a Collinsville resident and head track and cross-country coach. "It's great to give back to the community for helping us build the stadium and track. It's bringing a lot more people on campus, some who probably haven't been there before."

Lang, one of the guiding forces and promoters of getting the state-of-the-art facility at SIUE in time for the 1992 Olympic Festival, July, says the university has made the track affordable for outside groups, including the high school track team.

"The university is not necessarily soliciting the events, but they certainly are accepting them," Lang said. "We tell them if it's available for the various agencies. There are many involved, of course, but they are minimal. People are charged only for what they use."

The Office of Conference and Institutional Affairs handles any requests for the stadium and track. It's not done through the athletic department. But Lang says the arrangement works well.

Collinsville High track coach Eschman said he was surprised that the school lost out on the events which it hosted last year.

"Some, like the relays hosted by Edwardsville High, I expected we would get to SIUE, but others, like the Belleville East Invitational and the Madison County Meet, I thought maybe we would still host," Eschman said.

There were nine major track meets last year while the SIUE track stadium was being built. This year, CHS will be the site for only three major meets — the Collinsville High School and the Southwestern Conference Boys Meet and the Class AA Boys Sectional. The Class AA Girls Sectional, which normally takes place at Collinsville last year, will be hosted by Highland this year.

"Nine major meets was probably too much," Eschman said. "It's probably a manageable number of big meets to hold."

While Eschman and his coaching staff were busy holding the track meets, he said the track team is in shape, with all the coaches pitch in to make it work smoothly.

Belleville East High School, or the better part of two years, became the home of the track for most of the area's major high school track meets. But the track at East is now in disrepair, so it makes for some interesting situations like when, for instance, the Belleville West Invitational is held at sites like Collingsville or now SIUE.

In any event, CHS became one of the major contributors to the short track in the area. East St. Louis, Highland, Belleville East and now SIUE also have played a role in keeping major area-wide events alive. Once there was a shortage of tracks, but now there are too many to have several from which to choose.

Winning combination Garlands earn Coach of the Year honors

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Granite City wrestling coach Mike Garland's most successful season, eight years at the helm ended with another last week when the Warriors were denied an opportunity to compete in the season-ending Illinois dual team state tournament.

But Garland's work with the Warriors this season has not gone unnoticed. On Tuesday, he was named Coach of the Year by the Illinois Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association.

GARLAND WILL BE honored during the IWOCA annual awards banquet Sunday in Hickory Hills, a suburb of Chicago. In addition, the IWOCA has named Garland's younger brother and assistant coach, Greg Garland, Assistant Coach of the Year.

The Garland brothers were voted top coaches of the year by high school wrestling coaches throughout the state after leading the Warriors to a perfect 25-0 record and the No. 1 ranking in Illinois this year. Granite City enjoyed one of its best seasons in school history, producing four state place winners at the Illinois individual state tournament Feb. 18 in Champaign.

The Warriors were also gunning for a second straight berth to the state dual-team tournament before the Illinois High School Association canceled the entire dual-team state series following a long-standing legal battle with Chicago Mount Carmel.

Tuesday's news helped take away some of the bitterness that resulted from the IHSA's cancellation of the tournament, which brought an abrupt end to the Warriors' remarkable season. The announcement came as both a thrill and a surprise to the two GCHS coaches.

"It feels good," Mike Garland said. "It's unexpected. It feels real good for my brother. It's just a great feeling."

"GETTING ANY award is fun, but when you get it from your peers and colleagues it makes it that much more gratifying. It's a big boost for the Granite City program."

"This is a great award, but I'd trade it all in for a state tournament trophy. I'd like to cut it into smaller pieces and give each kid a share. They're

GCHS kickers net seventh straight win

The Lady Warrior soccer team saw its streak of seven consecutive wins begin with a winning string alive at seven games Monday with a 4-2 victory over McClure North.

Sophomore Michelle Montgomery was the way with two goals, including the game-winner, as the Lady Warriors improved to 7-1-1.

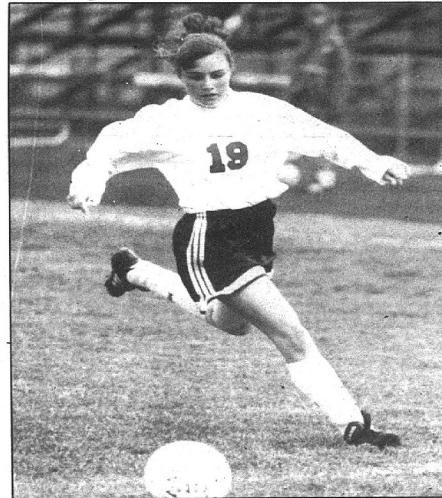

McClure North's two goals were the first scored against Granite City since March 25, when Alton tied the Lady Warriors 2-2. GCHS outshot the Stars 26-4 and also got goals from Jennifer Siplaingard and Amy Henson.

GCHS HAS THE rest of the week off and is now preparing for next week's St. Louis Christian Football North Shootout, which kicks off Monday at Howell North High School. The Lady Warriors are in a four-team bracket with Alton, Word, St. Joseph's and Duchesne.

The Lady Warriors placed second in last year's tournament and will begin play with an 8 p.m. game Monday against Alton. Word, The game will be a rematch of Granite City's season opener March 24, when the Red Knights blanked the Lady Warriors 5-0. GCHS has gone unbeaten in the past eight games.

The Lady Warriors will play St. Joseph's at 4 p.m. Tuesday and Duchesne at 4 p.m. Thursday. The tournament concludes with the title game April 29.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Warriors hold off Flyers, end skid

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City baseball team snapped a three-game losing streak and kept East St. Louis' streak on the skids in Tuesday's 7-4 victory over the Flyers in a Southwestern Conference game at Varsity Field.

The Warriors, who had lost three of their last four, finished a 1-0 victory over SWC foe Bellville West, stayed perfect in conference play and raised their record to 3-0 and 9-4 overall. The Flyers dropped to 0-3, 0-6, but gave the Warriors all they could handle.

AFTER TAKING A 4-1 lead in the third on a two-run home run by starting pitcher Harold Mathis, the Flyers trailed 5-4 in the fifth and threatened to rally once again by loading the bases with two outs. But GCHS reliever Matt Tieman, who took over for winning pitcher Billy Niepert in the fifth, worked out of the jam and the Warriors added two insurance runs in the eighth of the inning to hold off the Flyers.

Granite City coach Gus Lignoul had other thoughts about the game, which was full of sloppy play and miscues by both teams.

"It's a very young playing right now," he said. "They're playing the game mentally," Lignoul said. "We haven't played well since the Westville West game. We were right today."

The Flyers took control early after falling behind 1-0 in the second inning, when Warrior catcher Scott Nemeth drove in Jason Wood with a groundout for his first hit of the game.

East St. Louis' Courtney Ferguson led off the third by reaching safely on an error by Wood, who misplayed a bunt. He left field for a single in the bottom of the half.

Reader singled a base hit for Granite City starter Justin Bettorf, who worked scoreless frames in the first two innings but left early in the third with grade 10. Mike Krause relieved and hit the first batter he faced, Jarrett Harlin.

With one out, Damian Evans doubled home Harlin to give the Flyers a 3-1 lead. After Damian Jackson grounded out, Mathis followed with a long shot to left-center that cleared the 380-foot sign for a two-run home run.

The Warriors cut the lead in half in the bottom of the inning against Mathis on an unearned run. Jon Reader led off with a triple and scored on Brian Lovell's sacrifice fly.

Niemeth followed on an error by Jackson at third base.

Niemeth relieved Krause to begin the fourth and got three quick outs before the Warriors scored a run in the bottom of the half.

Reader singled a base hit for Granite City's victory. Granite City's victory came in the bottom of the fifth when Mathis reached with a single and Mathis scored on an error by Nemeth.

The Warriors added to the lead in the fifth with a two-run rally, which began with a two-out single by Wood. After a walk and taking third on a throwing error, Wood scored when Keith Simon reached on an error. Nemeth followed with a long drive that eluded Ferguson in center field for a triple, scoring Simon for a 7-4 lead.

Tiemann did the rest by retiring the final six batters he faced to record a save. He faced four batters in the ninth, all of whom finished with five strikeouts over the final three innings.

"He did a nice job," Lignoul said. "It's one of the only pitchers who's been able to throw two pitches for strikes."

I thought Niepert threw pretty well, too. He just got a little tired. We've asked a lot of Billy. He's doing a great job.

He's also tough for the Warriors this season.

The Warriors added to the lead in the fifth with a two-run rally, which began with a two-out single by Wood. After a walk and taking third on a throwing error, Wood scored when Keith Simon reached on an error. Nemeth followed with a long drive that eluded Ferguson the ones who made it possible," Garland, who took over the Warriors' tradition-rich program in 1987, said. "Greg is the staff as his assistant coach. Greg Garland has been with the team ever since, and he has helped his older brother compile an amazing 100-win record. This year, the Garland brothers were also assisted by Tom Blaha and Mark Whitaker.

The two brothers are former GCHS underclassmen. Warrior coach Bill "Red" Schmitt, Garland, who wrestled at GCHS when Mike was an assistant coach under Schmitt, was just as thrilled with the IWCIA's announcement.

"It was quite a surprise that they honored both of us at the same time," Greg Garland said.

He was recognized. Mike has worked very hard to build up the program and he deserved great year."

The season ended in Champaign, where the Warriors placed one of their best efforts at state in years. Slay's state title marked the first by a GCHS wrestler in 26 years, and the first for a wrestler from Granite City. It was a moment to mention Garland's greatest coaching accomplishment thus far.

"As far as individual matches, I'd have to say that was the culminating point of everything you work for," Garland said. "Also, having (10) kids go to state."

"Maybe we kind of turned the corner this year. Hopefully we can continue to do that next year. We'll just have to see how much the kids want to dedicate themselves."

"There are no shortcuts in this sport. There's only one way to do it, and that's hard work and dedication."

Garland has found that out over and over again during the past eight years with GCHS, which has established itself as a state power in the last few years. He said the IWCIA's vote was a long-awaited recognition for GCHS and southern Illinois.

"It's a vote for the area," Garland said. "We've come miles through the year, but when we go up to the state tournament we all root for each other. It's good for the school, the community, the whole area."

"I'm happy for Mike," Greg Garland said. "I think the best compliment of the year was at the individual state tournament in Champaign when the coach son, the head wrestling coach at the University of Illinois — came up and said, 'You guys really had a great tournament.' That really says a lot."

Not only did Granite City earn state-wide acclaim, but also national recognition. The Warriors' program now appears to be as strong as ever.

Garland is one of just a handful of coaches to lead the GCHS wrestling program in the past half-decade. He took over for Mike Schmitt, who coached GCHS two years following the retirement of the legendary Schmitt.

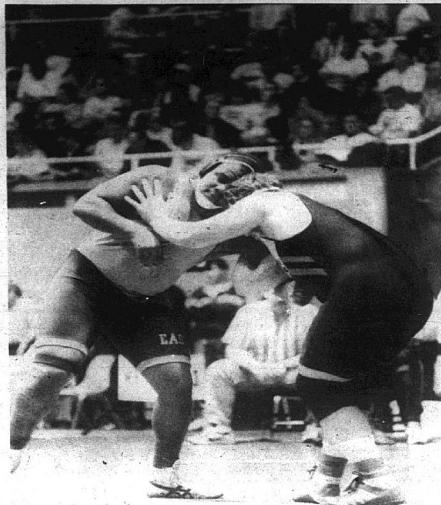

"It was a tough act to follow, but I didn't take this job to try to compete with their accomplishments," Garland said. "We're just trying to maintain the level that's been established."

"The kids realize they had a still have a hard time accepting it," Mike Garland said. "To punish 31 other teams because of one school is not right."

"It was hard to swallow," Greg Garland said. "But, even though we couldn't get the dual-team tournament, it still didn't take anything away from the year the kids had. You have to accept it and move on."

"The kids realize they had a

Horoscope

The sun moves into Taurus, and you have a good chance to get organized. Clean debris from drawers, closets, and the back of your car. Shift at least one old grudge. Do some price comparisons on new purchases you're planning to buy. Pluto glides back into Scorpio, highlighting fundamental upheaval in power plays bring changes in large government areas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Tension surrounds the issues that most concern you at work and at home. Be sure you're adaptable with a strong, individualistic new associate before you speak to him or her.

TAURUS (April 20-May 18). It's your turn to step out front, so put your best foot forward, but remember that formality in public relations is the best policy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Conditions are changing on the job — rumors of promotion for months are confirmed at last. You're adaptable, though, and willing to follow in detailed tasks, you'll find changes advantageous.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Explanations will help those concerned feel a part of the transitions in progress. You have great leadership ability — now is the chance to show it. A positive attitude is key.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). A time begins when you are greatly needed. You'll enjoy the extra responsibility. Family matters can be a bit confusing, but knowing that you're making a difference is rewarding enough.

VIDGO'S BIRTHDAY (April 20). Wonderful new chances to finally complete long-pending projects are here. In May, a powerful ally comes through for you. Through June, there's plenty of money to be made — in July, expand profit-making projects and your circle of relationships. That's equivalent to a raise in life.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Buy no sales pitches on behalf of unknown organizations today. Ideas of your own may or may not work, but give yourself lots of room for error, and keep your sense of humor handy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). The ability to laugh at yourself can be the ultimate saving grace. Don't try to catch a braggart in an exaggeration unless he or she is going to swindle a pal — use humor instead to best effect.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). Sit back, and enjoy being loved. Relax the rules a little with a child, and do plenty of listening. Encouraging free speech helps diffuse family differences — put your opinions aside, and mediate.

SATURNUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 20). Wonderful ideas may be a part of your scenario today, but you have to accept a change or two in your responsibilities, and you need to be ready to learn fast. Are you prepared?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 21-Jan. 19). Don't try to get a point across if the listener doesn't seem to be understanding. Personal communication equipment are tricky areas — soon, you'll be back in charge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). New friendships and routine errands are subject to misunderstandings, misdealing and misdirection, so keep your sense of humor, and save important talks and presentations for later.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Are you ready for a really exciting fresh chance at being the center of attention? Don't spend money today, and don't make final moves on investments. But do get ready for good news.

2 Broadway hits set for summer

Summer Showbiz, the annual summer stock theater program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will stage two Broadway hits for summer fare this year — "Man of La Mancha" with the man of La Mancha and the man of Little Big Man, "Meet Me in St. Louis," Hugh Martin and Ralph Blane's tribute to the classic 1944 St. Louis World's Fair. Based on the classic movie of the same name, it's a popular musical chock full of Broadway hits, one of those rare magical theatricals, a homespun tale of fantastic proportions.

Sally Benson's book, "Meet Me in St. Louis," relates the charming story of the Smith sisters and their mother as they set against the backdrop of the opening of the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair. Based on the classic movie of the same name, it's a popular musical chock full of Broadway hits, one of those rare magical theatricals, a homespun tale of fantastic proportions.

"Man of La Mancha" is one of the great Broadway musicals of our time — with one of the most popular staples of Broadway musicals, "The Trolley Song." "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" and "I'm Gonna Love You Like a Love in a Lifetime" are just a few of those classics.

Tickets for Summer Showbiz '95 are available through the SIUE School of Fine Arts office at 692-2774.

With Rosemary Clooney, Hugh Martin, and Dorothy Lamour, the musicals will be staged at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, June 15 through 18, and June 22 through 25.

"Meet Me in St. Louis" will be staged at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, July 6 through 9, and July 13 through 16. All performances will be staged in the Communications Building. Theater.
